

TECHNOLOGY ASSESSMENT

Ask yourself these questions:

- ✍ Am I comfortable with my current technology investments and are they in line with my business goals and strategic objectives?
- ✍ Does my current technology deliver clear bottom-line benefits for my company?
- ✍ How much does it cost me to recruit, train and retain IT people?

Let Nonik Unleash Your Computing Potential

Do you sometimes find yourself feeling that you are being held hostage by your computer? That's where a business thinking, experienced computer hardware and software specialist can help.

Our experience and expertise is particularly focused upon small and medium sized businesses.

If you are seeking a well rounded hands on business IT manager that understands people, profitability through business applications and is focused upon computer hardware and software reliability and security - Nonik provides that service.

Losing a key computer savvy person is a traumatic experience. Hiring a replacement in a hurry can be even more traumatic. What if you could hire an experienced replacement (part time) who could do the job immediately--and help you grow your business?

You can do just that. We are very quick studies and hit the ground with our feet moving. We adapt very well to new situations and have a strong ability to get along and work productively with a diverse mix of people. We require minimal direction and are self activating and very accountable.

Pay only for what you need and get what you need without having to hire, train and develop an unproven IT performer only to have them leave when they just start to be productive.

Our services are usually provided on a scope of services and fixed price basis. We work on short term and ongoing part time contractual arrangements that specifically address your needs. You don't have overhead and benefit packages to pay for when your needs change..
